

Pacific Rim Tapestries works closely with clients to design tapestries that reflect their owner and fit the architectural space. Initial conversations lead to preliminary drawings, photographs and models. The artists and client work together closely during the design phase.

In Mid Summer, a photograph through a garden overlooking Puget Sound served as the point of departure. Through subsequent drawings, elements in the original photograph were shifted and altered to create a more compelling composition. In addition, the rendering in colored pencil and paint resulted in a more impressionistic feel to the image.

Mid Summer, 36" x 30"
commissioned for Nancy Powell, Gig Harbor, Washington

The final design is hand woven on vertical looms using a strong, supple cotton and brightly colored wools. Transposed into tapestry the image gains a unique richness and depth.
